GMO & IRRADIATION POLICY

UK Blending Limited does not knowingly supply products manufactured from raw materials containing, or derived from, genetically modified materials or those that have been irradiated.

We rely upon cooperation from our ingredient suppliers and customers to provide full specifications detailing what measures are taken to ensure their products are GMO and irradiation free.

It must be understood, however, that the complex nature of the product supply chain itself which consists of diverse activities such as farming, processing etc. means that we are unable to give guarantees about the absence of genetically modified material, from source. We do not exercise direct control over every stage of this supply process.

Please note that UK Blending Limited in consultation with various industry bodies has been advised that given the risk assessments of the above noted supply chains it is not possible to issue guarantees about the complete absence from source of GMO's or irradiated ingredients from our products.
